1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Vajda et al (5,207,499).
3. Vajda discloses a first conduit with a terminal section that flows into at least one opening for delivery of a fluid jet in a preferential direction(5) a light source(65) and a second conduit with a terminal section that leads into at least one outlet for emission of a beam of light produced by the light source and oriented essentially in parallel with the aforementioned preferential direction(10,40,80), the terminal sections of the first and second conduits have at least one common wall which segregates the light beam from the fluid prior to delivery of the fluid jet(35,fig 1) ; the second conduit runs at least partially inside the first conduit wherein the light source is external to the first conduit and isolated from the fluid wherein at least one opening for the delivery of the fluid jet and at least one opening for the emission of the beam of light are aligned on a same wall of the fluid delivery system(fig 1); wherein the light source is mounted in alignment with the second conduit(fig 1); wherein the second conduit is tapered and a cross section of the tapered second conduit decreases in size in a direction moving away from an interior thereof and towards the at least one opening for the emission of light(fig 1, at least in upper portion near where the light source is located); the second conduit is delimited by waterproof walls which completely seal and segregate the second conduit from an interior of the first conduit(10); wherein the second conduit has at least one transparent wall(40); wherein the first and second conduits are mounted on a support equipped with a fitting for the light source (150,200,fig 1);

4. Claims 10-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Kehat (6,021,960).

5. Kehat discloses a main hollow chamber (1)with at least one opening that forms a fluid delivery area(4) ,alight source (12)coupled with the main chamber which emits a beam of light that is projected out of the main chamber and originates from a portion of the fluid delivery area in which there are no fluid outlet holes(10, fig 1); the at least one opening for delivery of water of the fluid jet is on a separate component which can be disassembled from a main supporting portion of the fluid delivery system(6,7).
